TAILOR

“This is amazing!”
exclaimed Quinn McBristly.

She and her little brother, Quill, were looking at photos of the Canberra
family’s new beach house.

The koalas had invited
their porcupine friends
to fly to Australia
for a vacation.

“Tessa and Teddie have a tiki hut,” said Quill.
“I can’t wait to swing
in the hammock!”

The McBristly porcupine family owns the Pins & Needles Tailor Shop in Honeysuckle Hollow.

“We just have to help Mom
and Dad get all the jobs done here in the shop
before we go,” Quinn said.

For days, their parents, Peggy and Porter McBristly, cut, mended, sewed, and ironed.

The children sorted spools
of thread, tidied scissors and tape measures, and stuck pins and needles into pincushions. They found almost all the lost thimbles!

“Ta-da!” announced Porter
and Peggy one morning.

They had finished their jobs and found time to make new bathing suits and beach bags for their family beach vacation!

Later that day,
there was another surprise.

The Skyhopper Pandas
took the McBristlys up
in their plane for a fun practice flight.

A few days later, it was time for the real flight—all the way to Australia!

The McBristlys closed
up their shop,
packed their bags,
and headed out to the Sunny Skies Airport.

But a sign was hanging on
the door of the airport:

The Skyhoppers have the flu
and must stay in bed.
All flights are canceled
for one week.

It was signed:
Dr. Barb Healthnuggle

“Oh no! I’m sorry
the Skyhoppers are sick,” said Quinn, “but I’m also sad our vacation is canceled.”

“Me too. Now we can’t go to the beach or have fun in our friends’
tiki hut,” said Quill.

But when the McBristlys returned home to unpack their suitcases, Quinn had an idea for a different kind of family vacation.

She explained it to her family, adding, “We’ll have to work, but we’ll do it together!”

Peggy, Porter, and Quill agreed a working
vacation could be fun.

They would have a
break from tailoring—
and learn some
new skills!

They all got busy
drawing up plans and
gathering materials.

The McBristlys sawed and
sanded and hammered.

They painted and wove
and decorated, too.

Come
join us at the
BEACH

The McBristlys invited all their friends to join them at the beach on the final day of their vacation.

“Don’t forget your swimsuits and beach bags,” added Quinn and Quill, mysteriously.

The next morning,
all the woodland creatures
were suprised!

The porcupines had set
up tables and chairs,
umbrellas, and a barbecue.
Best of all, they had built the Sunshine Tiki Hut right on the beach.

Everyone had a
wonderful time—eating,
building sandcastles,
swinging in the hammock,
and splashing in the water.

The sun went down,
the tiki torches were lit,
and the fun continued.

“We didn’t visit our koala friends,” said Quill, “but we did get to have our vacation with all our friends here.”

“And now Honeysuckle Hollow has a tiki hut everyone can enjoy!” Quinn said, with a grin.

Lil' WOODZEEZ

Quinn and Quill McBristly, and their parents, Peggy and Porter, are excited! They will close up their Pins & Needles Tailor Shop for a week and visit the Canberra koala family in Australia. The children can't wait to play on the beach and hang out in their friends' new tiki hut!

But when the McBristlys arrive at the Sunny Skies Airport for their flight, it seems their beach vacation may not get off the ground. Or will it? Maybe there's another way to enjoy a week of family time on a beach with good friends!
